YEARBOOK 2017 THE WORLD AROUND US

Once again, well done to all of our students for their hard work over the year and a particular thank you to those of you who made the Yearbook possible through your contributions. This is the sixth edition of the Yearbook here at British Council Romania and the content goes from strength to strength. The theme this year is The World Around Us. It offers a selection of topics through which our students, from our youngest to our oldest, constantly develop their curiosity, their knowledge and their skills, all of which happen here at the British Council through the medium of English. I hope that you enjoy this year's Yearbook as much as I have, and I am sure that it will be a reminder to us all that we should always remain curious and never stop learning.

*With best wishes,
Duncan*

Natalia I2

The drawing shows a family tree with several members: Mami and Raluca (two women), Emil and Angi (two men), Natalia (a child), Craiu (a dog), Micione (a small dog), Srupi (a dog), and Tabi (a dog). There are stars scattered around the figures, and a large tree on the right side.

EXPERIENCES

Things I've done...
.. and things I haven't done.

I've been to 10 countries in my life. It was AWESOME!
I've eaten octopus. It was DISGUSTING!
I've seen a polar bear. It was COOL!
I've seen a real white shark!!

I haven't seen a lion yet.
I haven't learned Russian yet.
I haven't seen a tiger yet.
I haven't eaten an apple yet, but I want to do it!

Diana J5

I've visited five countries. My favourite is Germany because I like the language.
I've seen a jellyfish. I like them because they are purple.
I've eaten pasta with vegetables.
I've driven a skyjet.

Rares J5

ROUTINES

Some of our students wrote (and drew) their daily routines. How does your day compare to theirs?

At home, I like to eat some red rice and watch Youtube for thirty minutes. My favourite Youtube channels are ASAP Science and ASAP Thought. Then, I do my homework for three or four hours. ON Mondays and Fridays I go to NASA club. I get back home and study for half an hour. Then I eat yellow rice. I have a shower, then I read twenty pages of a book, and go to sleep at 12 o'clock.

Antonia LSA

I wake up at nine o'clock or seven.
 At ten o'clock I have my breakfast.
 At eleven o'clock I dress up.
 At half past eleven I go to school
 I study from twelve o'clock to six.
 I go home at six o'clock.
 I do my homework from seven to nine or ten.
 At half past ten or nine pm I go to sleep.

TOWNS AND CITIES

Here's just some of the work students at the British Council did this year on the theme of towns and cities and places in them

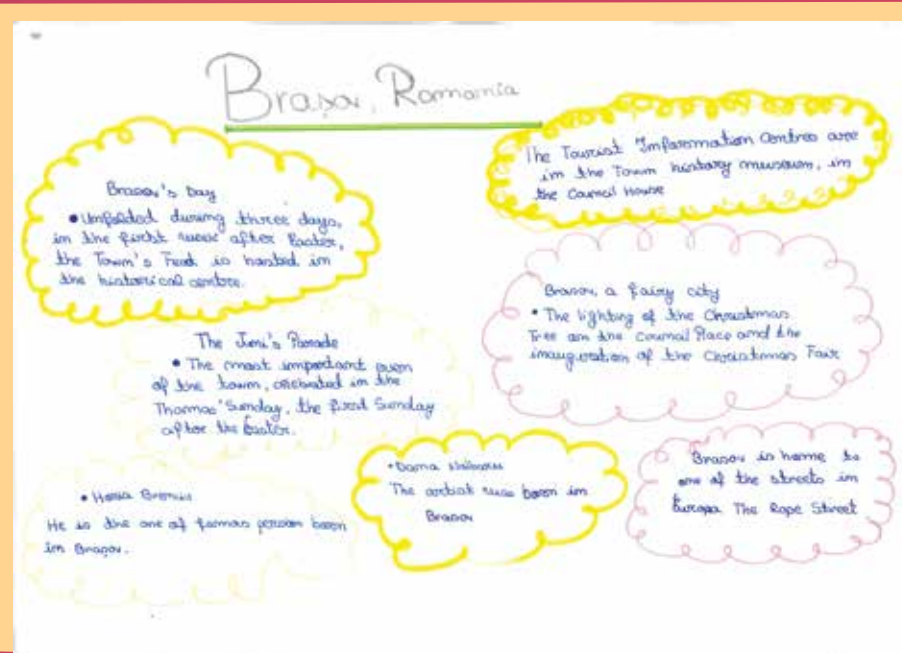

Alexia LSA1

Some facts about my city

Bucharest was founded by a shepherd called Bucur, probably in the 14th century. In 1659, when Gheorghe Ghica ruled, Bucharest became the capital. In 1694 the first higher education institution began, the Princely Academy.

Alex LSA1

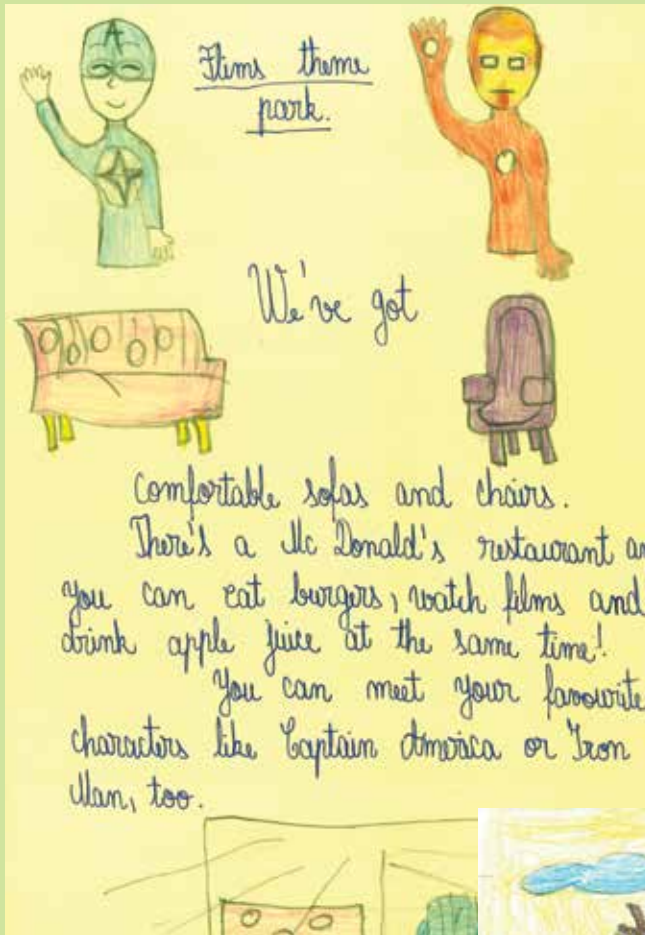

The Brasov Days unfolds over three days, in the first week after Easter, the town's feast is hosted in the historical centre.

Brasov is home to one of the narrowest streets in Europe, Rope Street.

Diana LSA1

ADVENTURE PARKS

If you could create your own adventure park, what would you put in it?
Here are some ideas our students had.

There's a McDonald's restaurant, and you can eat burgers, watch films and drink apple juice at the same time!
You can meet your favourite characters like Captain America or iron Man.

Cristina J3

CASTLES

Imagine you were the king or queen of your own castle ...

Sofia PJ4

This castle is pink and it has big windows, a bridge and a moat. The knights had old armour and iron swords. The castle has big towers with blue flags. You can visit this castle on Monday - Friday. For adults it is £ 8.00, for children it is £ 4 and for family is £ 20. Around the castle are three restaurants and some shops. You can visit the bedroom and the very big bathroom. You can ride the boat on the moat. In the moat there are fish. There is a torture chamber too like at the Roman castle.

This is the Andrew Castel. It is very big. It has a big, long moat. You the King. It has a pool, 1 bedroom, 1 stable. The Garden has big trees, flowers. You can see tournaments, eat, play in the garden, swim in the pool, sleep, ride horses, see very big diamonds. We are waiting for you.

Andrei PJ4

What would your ideal school be like? We asked some of our students, and here's what they said...

TRANSPORT AND TECHNOLOGY

Some of our students got inventive and created their own machines ...

Rares LSA1

The Dream MAKER

Have trouble sleeping? Want to dream a castle, but you have a nightmare? Well, dream maker it's the solution!

? When?

I invented this machine on 23 august sat. I had trouble sleeping and a lot of nightmares, so I thought "Why don't I make a thing that could help me with that?" So... BAM! This is how I invented the Dream Maker.

? With what?

The main part is made out of an old toaster. The thing that you place on your head is made out of an old speaker. And the inside... well it's a lot more complicated.

? How?

How do you use it? Easy! You just have to write on a special card with a special pen the description of the dream. Then you put it in the toaster, you press START and you put the speaker on your head. In less than 5 minutes, you are asleep. Good night!

1. A hand holding a pen writing on a card.

2. A toaster with a card inside.

3. A red button labeled 'START'.

4. A girl with a speaker on her head.

The final illustration shows a toaster labeled 'DREAM MAKER' with a 'START' button, a 'CARDS' container, and a pen. A card with the text 'I want to dream the castle in a tower' is inside the toaster.

Some of our students had some ideas for their own festival...

Andra LSA2

This amazing event it is in London on 8th August. People celebrate sweet candies and just have a fun day.

The history of this event is about a child who spread a lot of candies in his house. After that the boy and his mother decide to have a special event when kids spread candies in all houses.

This event have a lot of competitions with candies, for example "Jelly Beans Challenge" or "Swimming in Jelly bears pool".

This free event it's amazing! You can come with family and friends! This event it is in the middle of the city in a big gingerbread house!

If you will come, you will get a lot of lollipops for free!

Come next time in London on 8th August at Candy Day and you will have a lot of fun!

Rainbow power! it's starts

This festival is on the 1st June to the 30th June in Bucharest. All people are dressed white, all colorful clothes and eat rainbow food. At this festival people participate at a color race. The streets are also colored. At night the winner at the race blow up fireworks.

Past of the color

Since 1982, were 5 rainbows on the sky for one month. All the people were happier in this month and worked harder and in that month the traffic was very clean, people were nice.

Now in this month people are happier and nicer.

Kelly says:

I like to have color clothes and dye my hair. I like also like the rainbows.. and I am very happy.

With my friends I party every day in this month and we go at the festival.

Hello, Shakira! Tell <sup>me</sup> something about you!

Ki! I'm a singer from Columbia, I'm married with famous football player Iguere and we have two beautiful boys.

Where did you learn to sing?

I learned to sing at home with my mother and then at school. I like singing. It makes me very happy!

What do you like to eat?

I usually eat fruits and vegetables, but on Sunday morning I eat an omelette with tofu and tomatoes.

What is your favorite colour?

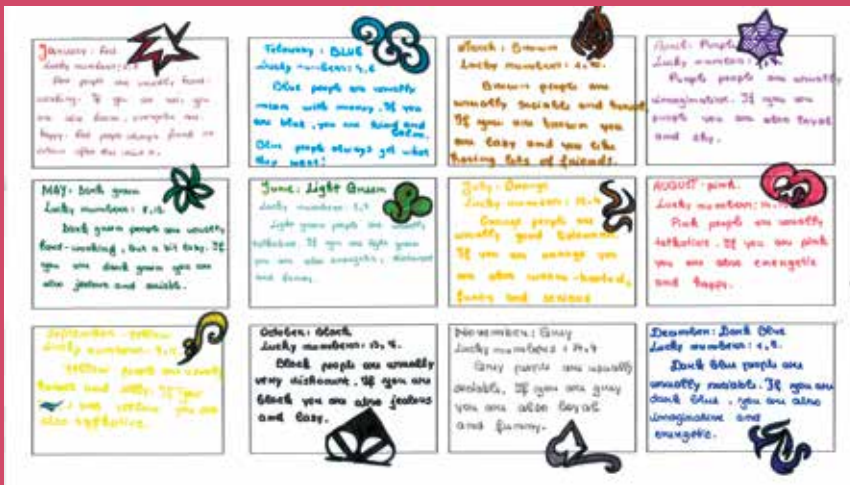

My favorite color is purple. I also like red and blue.

Luiza J3

What does your zodiac sign say about you?
Some of our students invented their own zodiac signs. Which ones are you?

April : Purple
Lucky numbers: 1, 7
Purple people are usually imaginative. If you are purple, you are also loyal and shy.

August: pink
Lucky numbers: 14, 15.
Pink people are usually talkative. If you are pink, you are also energetic and happy.

CANDY CLOUD

This picture shows like everything is possible, like in a dream.

It looks as if it started to melt, because there are pieces of it everywhere.

To me, this picture is about a dream where ice cream is a balloon and every candy is not eatable any more.

Alexandra

In this picture, with the name of 'Candy Cloud', you can immediately see ice cream. It looks like a cloud, being scattered all over the piece.

This piece makes me feel cold, because of the usage of cold colours.

Overall, it's a great piece!

Lidia

Some of our LSB2 students had a go at creating some surreal art, and then shared their impressions of each others' work.

THE TREE OF IMAGINATION

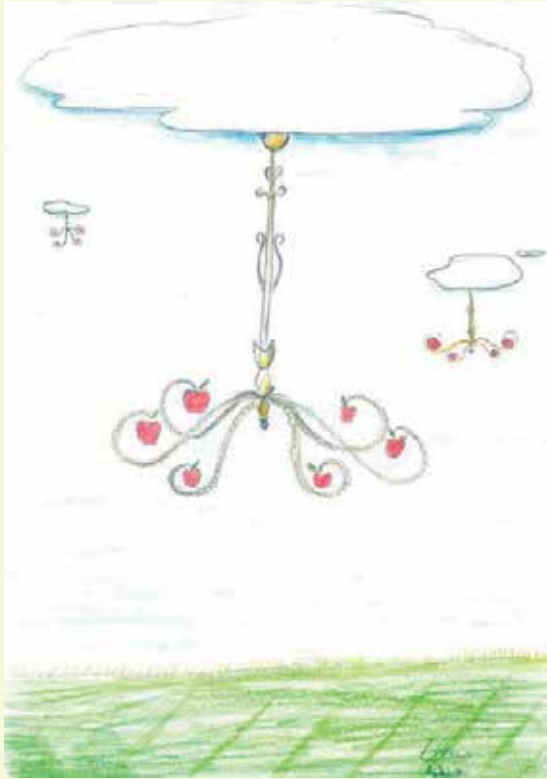

Alexandra and Alexia

It looks amusing because it seems as though there's a rainbow waterfall. It's also quite confusing because it looks like the unicorn's head is the mountain, but it's still fascinating because the people who created this had a lot of imagination. To me, this picture is all about a fantasy world. I really like it.

Ingrid

SKY APPLES

Lidia and Elena LSB1

In this picture I can see chandeliers hanging from the clouds and the actual light bulbs are apples. This picture is abstract art. It portrays a landscape with three clouds and three chandeliers. It looks as if the sky is giving its light through the apples. To me, this picture is about the natural spectrum of a landscape. I like that it is very detailed and the painters were careful about little details. It makes me feel relaxed and kind of pure. I don't know how to explain, because of the simplicity that's in it.

Alex

PLANET VOICE

Maria, Ingrid and Irina LSB1

In this picture, I can see a girl with an ice cream. In the background you can see a planet and some sound. I think the sound is the voice of the planet. The picture is something strange, SF, and that's why I like it. The ice cream looks like and SF laser ice cream! That's cool. This picture makes me feel happy because I like SF.

Do you agree with these reviews?

A film review – Breakfast at Tiffany's

I'm sure that the name "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is not only familiar, but widely popular among cinefiles. This summer I had the pleasure of watching it and it reminded me of the reviews it got in the 50's and the impact and relevance it has on today's society. The action is set in New York in 1950, and we are first introduced to Paul Varjak, a young promising waiter, who, despite the success of his critically acclaimed first novel, has not written a book in five years. Paul lives in the same apartment building as Holly Golightly, a young woman whose income is mainly the money she gets from her suitors and dates, 'rich, middle-aged, upper-class idiots' and businessmen. Holly is quirky, charismatic, flighty and, upon meeting Paul, decides to call him 'Freddie' because of his apparent resemblance to her brother. Even though Paul is at first amused by Holly's attitude and lifestyle ("if I names the cat, it would belong to me, and I would belong to her"), he soon grows fond of her and an unlikely friendship arises. Holly manages to coax Paul out of his writer's block and his relationship to an older, married woman who pays the rent to his apartment. However, we spend more than half of the movie wondering about the girl's past, who shrugs it off with a joke and changes the subject before the protagonist even has the chance to properly formulate his question. As the relationship between them progresses, he learn that Holly is, in fact, a very sensitive, understanding and profound person, hence her devotion to Tiffany's, the place she goes when she has the 'mean reds' ("Suddenly you're afraid, and you don't know what you're afraid of"). While Holly continues her quest to a dependable source of income; a rich husband, Paul meets a man named, coincidentally, Golightly. The man tells Paul hi story and the protagonist is shocked to find out that the man was Holly's husband, a farmer from the south who had taken 'Lara Mae' and her brother Fred under his roof after he found them stealing from his garden. The farmer married Lara Mae, but she soon fled after her brother left to fight in the war. The film's climax is Lara Mae's surprise and her apology and explanation to the farmer, while Paul watches uneasily. Perhaps the most touching moment of the movi, apart from the growing romance between the two main characters, is when Lara Mae decides to come clean about her past to Paul and admits she doesn't know who she is any more.

A gripping plot, moving and memorable scenes and the mesmerising performance fo Audrey Hepburn make the film a classical masterpiece. The theme transcends your average romantic comedy's plot and dialogues and the portrayal of the characters is done in a simple, yet beautiful and elegant way. As the plot unfolds, we glimpse more and more into the making of the iconic love story and the individual human types presented, such as the intellectual (Paul) , the flighty, immoral gold-digger (Holly), etc. Despite the caricature of the way we perceive people in the society and their roles, the film is undeniably original and touching. I thoroughly recommend the experience to any audience that wants a light-hearted but complex Saturday night film.

Radu and Maria, USC1

Molly Sweeney – the world is beautiful through closed eyes

If you have ever wished to get an insight into the way a blind person sees the world (figuratively) and simultaneously be a witness to a moving, thought-provoking play that is sure to leave you gasping in shock, "Molly Sweeney" is definitely the paly to see. A Classic work of Friel, the play revolves around three alternating perspectives of the same story – that of Molly Sweeney, a blind, middle-ages woman who is able to find joy in the simplicity of life, her project-obsessed husband Frank and Dr. Rice, whose career and personal life have flopped and he's trying to get back on track by regaining Molly her sight. The play follows her moving journey and the way she values the small, yet comforting universe she was given, while Frank is convinced that she will only be truly happy once she becomes a resident of the seeing world. Its definite strength is the plot-twist in which Molly ends up being driven insane by her newly obtained sense, because she can no longer have her own reality. The play's only weakness is the occasionally difficult to follow alternation of perspectives. Still, enter the theatre open-minded and shall find the performance stunning. In my opinion, the theatre was an incredible venue – not only were the audience offered a vintage-looking background, but they could also enjoy a drink while watching, truly making yourself at home. It was certainly a unique experience, as theatres don't usually offer that cozy feel.

All in all, I would put "Molly Sweeney" on my list f must-see plays. It is heart-warmingly twisted, mind-blowing and definitely a marvellous performance to see.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas Fayre at the British Council

Shall I compare thee to Christmas day?
Thou art less boring and less old
Rough winds do shake the baubles on the tree
And winter makes us feel all cold;
Sometimes too bright the decorations shine,
And often far too loud carols sound,
And food is often way too hard to chew
While good company becomes hard to be found;
You are condemned to stay indoors with them,
Pretend you're having fun and like the gifts!
Not even school can help you now escape
You can try hiding, but can't get away...
The only consolation is to tell yourself
That it will all come to an end one day!
